DEDICATION

MRS. MARIAN TURK

Mrs. Marian Turk, our English teacher, has granted us the many benefits of her enthusiastic appreciation of the Language Arts, and has afforded us the benefits of her valued counsel as our Senior faculty advisor and friend. We shall recall her wit, her patience, and teaching throughout our lives.

FOREWORD

Lear School: Our home away from home. Throughout the years we have shared our lives, daily. Some relationships were born up to twelve years ago, and some have been conceived in the recent years. The bonds of unity among us are strong.

Our fellowship in the Lear School reflects the varied times that we, the Senior Class, have experienced. Growing up is a long procedure leading towards maturity. "True friendship is a plant of slow growth and must undergo and withstand the shocks of adversity before it is entitled to the appellation," These words, said by George Washington, are representative of our lives. Living and learning together enriches the values and goals as we grow closer together in our minds and our hearts. The limited size of the Lear School family only tightens our mutual love, rather than us existing as mere acquaintances in a huge assembly.

Will our companionship continue? From the west coast to the northeast, and back to Miami, our bonds of friendship will encircle our nation. Our intimacy will continue throughout our college years and far beyond.

The theme of the 1978 ZEPHYR directs attention to the brotherhood existing in our graduating class. Whether we may be in Boston, Denver, New Orleans, or Miami, our comradeship will spread over the land; the same force that forged it, will contain it even stronger in the years to come.

Joel Futterman — 1978

CAMPUS and FACILITIES

The Lear School's programs prepare young people to take their places in life as competent, well-adjusted citizens. The enriched, continuous curriculum from Kindergarten through High School is organized around small class groups, directed by capable and interested teachers. Guidance in academic and personal development and experiences in the fields of creative arts provide outlets and direction for individual expression.

The Lear School philosophy is founded on a firm commitment to promote the creative, intellectual growth of our students. This has been the framework within which our programs have been developed since our origin in 1934.

The goals include an academic environment to encourage each student to further his capabilities, energies, and interests. Our objectives are to provide skills and factual knowledge; to stimulate creative thinking, ethical values and realistic self-confidence.

Our aim is to help students to complete a continous, meaningful, college-preparatory course, an important phase in attaining the satisfaction and success of the total individual.

CURRICULA:

The academic areas covered on different levels include Language Arts, Mathematics, Social Studies, Sciences, Developmental Reading; Foreign Languages and Study Skills.

Creativity and Physical Development are encouraged throughout the school in Fine and Applied Arts, Dramatics, Speech, Debate, Music, Journalism, Athletics and Swimming.

Such media as the Planetarium and Science Labs, Library, Audio Visual equipment, tape recordings, overhead projectors, and the reading laboratory enhance the learning programs.

IN MEMORIAM

In recognition of the fact that the staff is an important part of the school, we take pride in presenting these vital members of our organization. The excellent academic background experience and competency of each combine to account for the high caliber of the Lear School program.

EARLY FRIENDSHIP

Stephen E. Spring Rice — 1884

The half-seen memories of childish days
When pains and pleasures lightly came, and went;
The sympathies of childhood rashly spent
In fearful wanderings through forbidden ways;
The vague, but manly, wish to tread the maze
Of life to noble ends; whereon intent,
Asking to know for what man here is sent,
The bravest heart must often pause, and gaze —
The firm resolve to seek the chosen end
Of adulthood's judgement, cautious and mature;
Each of these viewless bonds binds friend to friend
With strength no selfish purpose can secure;
My happy lot is this, that all attend
That friendship which first came, and which shall last endure.

VIVIAN SARAH ZEMLOCK

PALM BREEZE 11.

"What is becoming in behavior is honorable, and what is honorable is becoming."

PROPHECY

I came home for vacation, 'twas the end of the year,
I was anxious to see all the alumni from Lear.
It'd been quite some time since I'd seen the old place,
So I readied to go with much hurry and haste.
I put all in order, got gas for the car,
Pulled out on Biscayne — didn't have to go far.
And when I arrived, it must have been fate,
For whom should I see? The Seniors '78!
They'd all gathered there to see someone dear,
The respected, beloved MRS. DOROTHY LEAR.
Then we walked to the office to visit a while,
To talk, to look back and to share lots of smiles.
MALLORIE FISHER and LIZ TURNER, too,
Each an accountant with so much to do.
TONY SILVERS, RICH CAMPBELL then came into view,
BILL BELIDA, CRAIG KONHAUZER — lawyers, all of you.
GARY MAISEL and INOVA DOMINGUEZ
"Lawyer and architect" — that's what each of them says.
DOUG WELLENS, JACKIE ABITBOL with their business degrees,
And JOEL FUTTERMAN in computer technology.
There's CLAYTON ISHAM strumming his guitar,
Playing those sounds that we hear in the car.
DANA DAVIDOFF, a teacher, smiles to brighten our day,
MICHAEL SCHWEIGER, STEVE MISHAAN come by this way.
Like MEHRDAD HARSINI and JON TAVS, they'd gone on for careers
In the field that is known as electrical engineers.
ROBIN WOLOFSKY with BLANCHE SPEICHER — Yea!
Both are the buyers for big stores on the Bay.
SUSAN GLAUBER, CORINNE GOLDSTEIN had art work they'd made
While TRACY TRUPPMAN had made animals her trade.
VIVIAN ZEMLOCK, like Tracy, was working with pets,
As JOE NEWGARDEN the III was fixing Corvettes.
Forest ranger, TODD HOLZBERG, enforcing the law,
BETSY BIRNS, a doctor, hugged all whom she saw.
HENRY MALANOWSKI, still in science and weights,
JON KANT and JOYCE WEBB? Well, they were both late.
They said they'd been working to make that big sale,
In real estate matters they both would prevail.
So many years, all pals and all friends,
It's good to know that these never end.
Before we noticed much time had been passed,
Yet each of us wanted these moments to last.
The hour was late as we said our goodbyes,
No surprise to know that I felt tears in my eyes.
We called out, "So long" and wished all good cheer,
Thankful forever for the years spent at Lear.

OPUS MAGNUM

THE YELLOW FLOWER

I picked a flower today
it's yellow — so fresh, so alive.
It looked at me
in all its goldenness
and seemed to say,
"Love and life are the only things that matter at all."
I think I'll give my flower to someone
it might brighten his day.
I'll give it to someone special to you.
'Cause you brighten my life — just like
The little yellow flower
I picked today.

Elizabeth Klein 1979

Jeri Goodkin — 1980

THE PRODUCT

My life is like a multi-colored ball of yarn.
It has had its dark spots which have faded gradually
Into the light spots.
In a few places the string has been broken
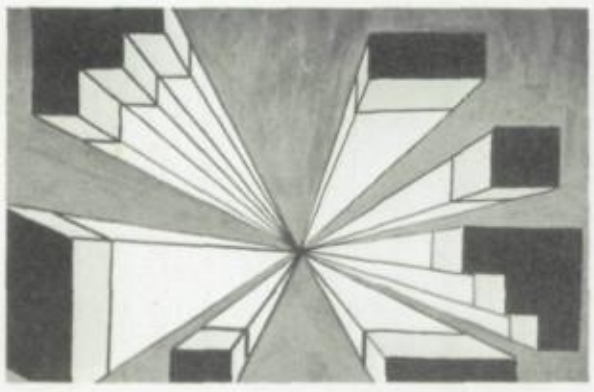
To be tied with a knot.

Alyse Aronstamn — 1980



Jeffrey Schuster — 1980

SHAZAM

I came to see him race through the trees.
When it comes to running, he does it with ease.
I love to sit under the warm, bright sun
And watch him raise his tail and run.

Vivian Zemlock — 1978

TIMES

We'll reminisce the events
Of this year 1978!
We look to the future
As we plan from the past.
What a rich past!
So be the future we plan!

Clayton Isham — 1978

John Tischenkel — 1981

THE SEA

The sea is the source of beauty
to me.
The ocean stirs my mind sets my soul free.

Anthony Silvers — 1978

JOURNEY

Most of us climb from the womb safe and well, souls blanched; white and pure.
And we crawl into our world made of glass walls, to reason, to think, our lives to insure.

Scott Star — 1979

STAR GAZING

Up above I see a star
So white, so bright, and oh-so-far.
If I had wings and I could fly
I'd take a trip up to the sky.
To touch those winking blinking lights
That look down on us from such great heights.
I would dance around the dipper
And slide down the Milky Way.

I'd sing a song with the man-in-the-moon
And then, I'd call it a day.

Bonne Scheflin — 1980

Corrine Goldstein — 1978

Susan Glauber — 1978

PAIN

A stone thrown in anger
Shattered the glass window of my heart
Into a thousand pieces
leaving only the pain
And emptiness of loving you.

Time — passing slowly
Will wash away the sorrow
like the tide.
And time will dull the burning flame of memories
Like a cool ocean breeze
Into a dimly flickering glow.

Maureen Abitbol — 1980

YOUNG ADULT

As I flee to Europe
when summer will come about,
with my back pack and guitar
I leave insecure and with doubt.

I plan to dnace through the Swiss Alps and ride upon a horse through Rome.
Perhaps I'll drink with an Irishman and toast to my past, living at home.

When my journey has ended
I will be totally free.
No use for parental protection
I will be dependent only on me.

ZEPHYR.

The Lear School story starts in the Kindergarten, progresses through the Primary Department and continues in the Intermediate Grades in preparation for our Middle School and High School programs. The curricula goals include mastery of the three R's, drills in skills, encouragement of individual expression: verbal, aesthetic and in role-playing. Creativity, originality and versatility enrich the academic programs and are evident in science projects, imaginative, introspective poetry and student written-produced plays.

ABOUT NATURE

The leaves of the forest and the hills
How pretty they are,
From month to month they become prettier.
When they fall, there is a sign
That they were the prettiest leaves that anyone had ever seen.
They were colored with all different colors
And they were beautiful like a golden leaf.

Scarlet Burstyn — Grade 1

IT'S SATURDAY!

Saturday morning, for Bob, was really a morning of ease. He always set the alarm at his schoolday rising hour so he could shut it off and go back to sleep. Breakfast, when he ate it, was easy: orange juice, cereal and milk.
Morning playtime was short sometimes,
only because lunchtime came so soon after breakfast.

Jason Rosenberg — Grade 4

Lisa Neil — Grade 5

THE NEW YEAR

The New Year is here
We're filled with cheer,
Because we know it's great to be at Lear,
Many good things
Will happen this year.

CIRCUS CLOWN

Clowns are happy and funny
They make you laugh,
Their clothes are very funny
And they wear silly pants
I never saw a clown
Before with a flower on his hat.

SCHOOL TIME
